Captain Says "I Had My Orders" In Explaining Sinking Of Big Ship

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Ellis Island, gateway to America, today harbored as "distressed seamen" 577 survivors of the German luxury liner Columbus whose future was to be determined at hearings starting without delay.

They had lived through one of the epic adventures of the war. They had scuttled and burned their own 32,581-ton ship, the No. 3 Nazi liner, on Tuesday afternoon when she was trapped by a British destroyer in the Atlantic while making a futile attempt to run the allied blockade. They were rescued by the United States cruiser Tuscaloosa and brought to New York last evening. They were fed and comfortably quartered for the night at Ellis Island.

Conduct Hearings

Today the authorities were conducting hearings to determine whether they shall be allowed to remain in the United States for sixty days, be detained as aliens, or interned for the duration of the war.

It was a strange sight—those 577 Germans on American soil. They seemed to bring the war close to home. They were rather happy

Snow And Ice Cover Highways In State

(International News Service)

A snowstorm which appeared to be general from the eastern seaboard to the middlewest today swept across Pennsylvania, giving the Keystone state the beginning of what may turn out to be a "white Christmas".

A blanket of snow and ice on the Pittsburgh district roads this morning jammed traffic and made driving hazardous. Road crews reported they could make little headway against the dangerous condition of the highways because of the continued snowfall throughout most of the state.

Many motorists abandoned their automobiles to take either street cars or busses. Two busses and several automobiles were reported stranded on route 22 near Wilkinsburg.

The Pittsburgh Motor club reported a light fog as well as snow at Elizabeth and other Monongahela towns and also at Johnstown. The club added that roads leading from Pittsburgh to Harrisburg, East Liverpool, Steubenville, Hagerstown (Md.) and Washington, Pa., were in bad shape.

At Somerset and Ligonier six inches of snow lay on the ground. Butler county roads were pretty well open, but roads around Kane were described as "worse than very bad".

The club said the road from Pittsburgh to Columbus was all ice, and that the entire length of the Lincoln and William Penn highways was in bad shape.

Governor James Challenges W. P. A. To Prove Whether Fair Play Or Politics Rule

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—A challenge to prove whether it is ruled by "fair play or politics" was thrown up to the State WPA today by Republican Gov. Arthur H. James as he accused the Federal organization of "gross failure in both its promise and its duties" to Pennsylvania.

In a severe castigation of the WPA in Pennsylvania, the chief executive wrote Federal WPA Administrator Col. F. C. Harrington that "now is as good a time as any to learn whether fair play or politics rules WPA."

The governor denounced the WPA as placing "a vast and totally unnecessary cost" on Pennsylvania taxpayers through failure to allot a "proper part" of its expenditures to the state and the "long and continued failure to meet the quota it has fixed."

"We in Pennsylvania," the governor declared, "have seen an eleven-month purge of WPA that has thrown hundreds of thousands of persons back on relief, coupled with a long chapter of evasion of facts and evasion of duty that is now costing the people of this state nearly half a million dollars a month—costing them that amount despite

Weather Change Brings Out Ash Trucks On Hills

Streets Slippery Early Today—Hear Complaints On Stop Sign Violations

Change in weather conditions during the night, resulted in streets becoming rather slippery this morning, and hills had to be ashed.

The fall of snow was light, but enough to provide a foundation for skidding. Temperature dropped below freezing, accompanied the snowfall.

Numerous minor accidents were occasioned by the conditions, and some minor traffic tieups occurred.

In connection with traffic conditions, numerous complaints are being made concerning the apparent disregard for stop signs on streets of the city by many motorists. Especially is this true on North Hill streets, where numerous accidents have been narrowly averted, when some driver refuses to heed a stop sign.

North Mercer street and Albert street are two thoroughfares where the violations of stop signs on intersecting streets appears to be common practice of some drivers.

Hitler Sends Congratulations To Josef Stalin

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—Chancellor Hitler sent a message to Josef Stalin today, congratulating the Soviet dictator upon his 60th birthday anniversary.

"Please accept my most sincere congratulations upon your 60th birthday," the fuehrer's message said:

Two Saturday Deliveries Of Holiday Mail

Huge Volume Of Mail Is Being Handled At Local Post Office

CANCEL 145,000 LETTERS WEDNESDAY

All New Castle will get two regular mail deliveries Saturday, Acting Postmaster William R. Hanna promised today. He wants "to get all the holiday mail out to the homes," he said.

Today brought crowds to the lobby of the post office and weighty loads to the sacks of letter carriers and the regular and extra parcel post trucks.

But even so, few hitches, either on the incoming or outgoing mail fronts, were reported. Oftentimes, they do develop through no fault of the postal army. Problems mount as the mail volume increases.

Stamp 145,000 Letters

Wednesday the post office cancellation machines stamped 145,000 letters. Something like 920 incoming and 753 outgoing parcel post sacks, crammed to the limit, were handled and 102 pouches of letter mail were moved. Cancellation of letters exceeded the record of December 20 last year.

"The force has a big job and is handling it in an efficient manner," the acting postmaster said.

Sunday, December 24, and Monday, December 25—Christmas Day—will be holidays at the office. Postal workers will enjoy their vacations at home, under Postmaster General James A. Farley's orders.

Last-minute mailing of greeting cards to local and nearby points strained the postage cancellation apparatus today.

European Nations To Get Protest On Action In Neutrality Zone In Atlantic

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—The United States and the 20 Latin American Republics have agreed to make a vigorous joint diplomatic protest against European war activities within the Western hemisphere neutrality zone it was learned today in authoritative quarters.

This agreement followed nearly a week of continuous consultation between the Pan American governments over the British-German naval engagement off the shores of Uruguay involving the Nazi pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Decision to engage in the united action was hastened by further sea warfare activities inside the 300-mile neutrality belt this week—the reported firing on big German freighter Arauca by the British cruiser Orion off the Florida coast and the scuttling of the German liner Columbus off the Delaware capes to prevent capture by an English destroyer.

Russians Meet Disaster When Trapped By Finns

By GEOFFREY COX
International News Service Special Correspondent

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY ON A FOREST ROAD NEAR SALLA, Dec. 21.—I stood today among the bodies of a Russian column struck on the flank by Finnish troops and killed in thousands during the "great push" designed to give Josef Stalin a sweeping victory in Finland for a birthday present.

To make this attack the Finns marched throughout Tuesday night on skis through the dense woods of north central Finland.

When they launched the assault, it was swift and sudden and—for the Russians—disastrous.

For more than a mile both sides of the road near Salla were choked with lorries, some of them smashed, the carcases of horses, abandoned rifles and other war equipment as well as foodstuffs.

At every turn lay figures crumpled in death.

This was where the Russian column had prepared to encamp for the night but had been trapped by Finns waiting in pits at the roadside.

They fired, when the order was given, at practically point-blank range.

The main battlefield was half a mile back.

There were strewn across the road bodies clothed in drab Soviet khaki

Soviet Planes Make New Bombing Raid On City Of Helsinki

(BULLETIN)

HELSINKI, Dec. 21.—Four of Helsinki's leading hospitals, grouped together in a "zone of mercy" on the outskirts of the capital, were hit in the course of two sweeping raids by Soviet war planes today.

(International News Service)

HELSINKI, Dec. 21.—Soviet airplanes carried out a new bombing raid on Helsinki this afternoon, damaging a hospital on the outskirts of the city during the course of the attack.

Ten bombs were dropped at various places in and about the largely-deserted capital.

One of the huge explosive missiles struck a hospital, but casualties apparently were slight.

Initial reports said that only a single person had been slightly injured in the hospital attack.

The raid was carried out by a squadron of 11 huge Soviet bombers.

At the moment of their approach, six of Finland's fast pursuit planes took to the skies and engaged the enemy in a prolonged battle. One of the raiders was reported shot down.

The air raid was the first to be carried out on Helsinki proper in many weeks. On several previous occasions, groups of Russian bombers had attempted to approach the capital but were beaten off by Finnish anti-aircraft batteries along the coast.

Germany Protests Against Internment Of Graf Spee Crew

On these grounds, Germany contended, the officers and men of the Graf Spee should not be interned.

AERIAL ACTIVITY BEING INCREASED

Captured Russian Planes Are Used By Finns In Rail Attack

(International News Service)

HELSINKI, Dec. 21.—Intense aerial activity enveloped southern and middle Finland today on the heels of a major Finnish victory on the north central front in which two Soviet divisions were annihilated.

Russian aircraft soared over many strategic points over southern Finland and the country's invaded 'wasp waist' area but, Finnish circles claimed, no less than fourteen were shot down.

This brought the estimated total of planes lost by the Soviets in three days of warfare to 54.

Sub-Zero Weather

In the far north, meanwhile, sub-zero weather halted virtually all activity of the large military units but the famed ski troops of the defenders took advantage of the opportunity to harrass the communication lines of the stalled Soviet war machine.

Reports from Bjoerkoe on the coast stated previous reports that the Russian battleship Oktjabrskaia Revolutia (October revolution) had been sunk by Finnish artillery were not accurate. What actually happened, these advices said, was that the Finnish guns scored a number of direct hits on the aged warship, crippling it so gravely it had to be towed out of the range of the Finnish batteries by two Russian destroyers.

In addition the Swedish steamer Mars was sunk when it struck a mine off the northeast coast of England. Six survivors were rescued but seven other crew members were reported lost.

No Decision On Course For Arauca

Hamburg Line Officials Confer

Ship Which Fled British Cruiser May Remain In Florida Port

ATTACHMENT MADE AGAINST VESSEL

(International News Service)

FORT EVERGLADES, Fla., Dec. 21.—An announcement was awaited today as to what course will be taken by the Hamburg-American Line with regard to its freighter, Arauca, which raced into Port Everglades harbor Tuesday to escape a British cruiser.

A representative of the line came from New York to discuss the situation with the freighter's captain, Frederick Stengler, who previously had commented his ship might be forced to stay in port indefinitely to escape capture or destruction on the high seas.

As an unarmed merchantman, the Arauca may remain in port as long as it wishes. The Arauca was carrying a miscellaneous cargo including hemp when it fled to safety from the British Cruiser Orion two days ago.

Would Be Suicidal

It was pointed out it probably would be suicidal for the vessel to head out to sea, where she could be overtaken by the Orion once she got out of territorial waters.

Filing of a claim against the Arauca added to the general impression the ship would remain in this port for some time. An attachment was served against the ship at the behest of the Imperial Sugar Company of Galveston, Texas. The company charged that at the outbreak of the war it had cargoes of sugar aboard three other Hamburg-American freighters, and that the vessels put into neutral ports without making delivery of the sugar.

By the attachment, the Arauca would be prevented from sailing at least until posting of a bond to cover the claim, made in the amount of $38,451.

GOVERNOR JAMES CHALLENGES WPA ON "FAIR PLAY"

the fact that it is out of the Federal taxes upon these same people that the WPA moneys are raised."

Governor James told Harrington that "if fair play is the watchword" of WPA, "let's have some of it in Pennsylvania."

Let's See If Politics Rules

"If politics is the consideration," the governor emphasized, "then let's drag that ugly cat out of the bag and let the people of this nation get a look at it in time for the next congressional session to tear the control of the people's money out of its present hands and put it back into those of the people's servants and representatives."

A pointed reference was made to recent praise by President Roosevelt of Pennsylvania's handling of the relief problem and its "generous treatment of need and dependents."

"The president's words of praise . . . only emphasize the failure of WPA to carry a proper share of the burden," Governor James said.

He demanded a job ratio for Pennsylvania of 200,000 and urged fulfillment of the present quota of 160,000. Relief needs in Pennsylvania were reduced one-fourth since January of this year, the governor claimed, with enough jobs being found to support 420,000 persons.

"What was WPA doing in the meantime?" he demanded. "The January total supported by WPA was 955,000, and the October estimate was 473,000, which is to say that while Pennsylvania was finding jobs to support 420,000 persons, WPA was throwing out of their jobs the supporters of 482,000 persons."

The WPA in Pennsylvania, the governor asserted, laid down on the job "so thoroughly" that the Commonwealth was being "robbed of the benefits of the state's own thrift and good government."

"For every man for whom Pennsylvania has been able to find a job, WPA has discovered ways and means to fire a WPA worker," the governor commented.

"For every dollar which this state has been able to reduce relief needs, WPA has cut a dollar out of its contribution to the needy of the state."

Murmansk railroad were reported, but results of these assaults were not known.

It also was reported that Finnish ski units and shock troops broke through the Soviet defenses and reached the rail line, blowing up several sections and then escaping safely back to Finland.

Use Russian Planes

In one aerial attack on the railroad, Finnish airmen resorted to a ruse that apparently completely outwitted the Russian high command. They were reported to have dropped bombs on a considerable section of the tracks.

Word of this foray reached the capital along with confirmation of the Finnish victory on the north central front. The two defeated Russian divisions there were "wiped out" in a battle near Suomussalmi that reportedly cost the lives of near 20,000 Soviet troops.

Reports reaching Helsinki via Norway said the Finns used seven Russian planes captured undamaged when their Soviet pilots surrendered, to attack the vital rail link between Russia's far northern forces and one of their chief supply bases.

These advices added that Italian and Spanish volunteer pilots participated in the attack on the railway, which parallels the eastern Finnish border.

Meanwhile, shortly after 10 a. m. an air raid warning sounded in the Finnish capital. The all clear signal was given at 11:15 a. m. No planes were seen from the center of the city.

Violent fighting was reported on the north central front, where the Finns were said to have "annihilated" the two Russian divisions.

ALL SURVIVORS OF COLUMBUS CREW AT ELLIS ISLAND

and certainly quite relieved. Only a handful of them talked English. Most of them wore nondescript clothes. Virtually all of them carried a bundle of clothes roped over one shoulder. A few were boys 15 or 16 years of age. Nine of the survivors were women.

Captain Wilhelm Daehne, master of the Columbus, gave a graphic description of the scuttling of the ship, explaining that "orders are orders," and "I had my orders." He used perfect English, relating his story as tersely and comprehensively as a veteran reporter dictating a narrative to the city desk.

The captain, a smiling, blue-eyed, rosy-faced man with closely clipped gray hair, wore his full dress blue uniform, decorated with gold braid, and white cap. He talked freely and lucidly, omitting no essential details.

Personal Tragedy

Although he smiled when he told of ordering the scuttling of the Columbus, it was plain to see that this decision was a great personal tragedy to him. He skipped quickly over the "orders" he had received but it was evident that, as in the case of the Admiral Graf Spee at Montevideo, the Columbus was sunk on orders from Berlin to prevent the ship from falling into the hands of the British.

"I left Mexico under orders," said Captain Daehne, cryptically. He added that the question of obtaining fresh water and provisions was a problem at the time he sailed for Germany from Anto Lizardo, 15 miles south of Vera Cruz, at noon on December 14.

Captain Harry A. Badt, master of the Tuscaloosa, told reporters his men rescued the Germans at a point "240 miles southeast of Nantucket Shoals." This would be inside the limits of the 300-mile zone along the American coastline.

Captain Badt did not consider it a violation of the neutrality law. He said: "What could the British do? The Germans scuttled the ship. The British had merely fired the customary warning shot, or two, across the bow of the Columbus, and ordered her to stop."

Unarmed Claims Captain

Captain Daehne declared that his ship was an unarmed merchantman. He denied the Columbus carried any guns or gun crews, or any equipment that would place her in the category of a naval auxiliary vessel.

"The only weapons on board were a dozen pairs of boxing gloves," he said, with a smile.

His crew, he asserted, were all bona-fide merchant marine sailors and he could see no reason to intern or deport them, or to treat them any differently than survivors of a ship-wrecked vessel. If so regarded, the German sailors would be entitled to remain in the United States sixty days before being compelled to ship aboard or be deported.

The Columbus, according to Captain Daehne, carried no cargo except sufficient oil and provisions for forty-five days at sea which length of time, he added, might be required in making a zig-zag voyage across the ocean.

A reporter told the captain that the commander of the scuttled German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, Captain Hans Langsdorff, had committed suicide by shooting himself.

"Yes, I heard he shot himself," was Captain Daehne's only comment.

RUSSIANS MEET DISASTER BY FINNS

with red-starred peaked caps, as well as Finns dressed in white with fur caps, whose comrades always covered their faces with cloth and sometimes with pine brush.

Here the Russians met a double belt of machine-gun fire in a small clearing. A dozen Soviet guns lay disabled. Horses were dead in their traces, and men were piled up around the gun-wheels.

Many of the Russians died from bayonet wounds, for there was fierce hand to hand fighting when the battle, lasting almost 48 hours, got under way.

The Russians, far superior in numbers, fought hard, but they never recovered from that first sharp blistering attack from the roadside pits.

As we drove through a village of scattered wooden houses after surveying the battlefield, there lay in the snow like bundles of rags the bodies of Russian and Finnish advance guard the crack of whose guns had signalized the start of this bloody "birthday gift" for Stalin.

PROPOSALS FOR COLLECTION OF GARBAGE TABLED

was to be done. He declared that several who offered bids had visited him in quest of information.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath said an ordinance gave all the information desired. The measure was passed more than a score of years ago. He inquired as to why Dunlap had voted to advertise for bids. Dunlap said he was not opposed to taking bids, but wanted specifications.

Councilman Rice supported the mayor in his contention that the ordinance gave the information which Dunlap asserted those who presented bids did not possess. The length of time of the contract also was not given, Dunlap said.

Three Support Move

His offer to reject bids was withdrawn, following which he offered a motion not to open bids. It received a second from Councilman Alexander and was passed when on the roll call Councilman Fink gave it support.

Mayor McGrath then charged that when the motion to advertise was passed Dunlap mentioned nothing, and then exclaimed: "Talk about business!" Dunlap retorted: "This is good business," following which Charles B. Mayne, to become mayor New Year's day, asked and got the floor.

He stated that he was the father of the municipal collection and disposal of garbage in this city. He said the city had three private collectors, Updegraff, Cohen and Travers. He related that the late City Solicitor James A. Gardner prepared the municipal garbage collection ordinance.

He told how the late Councilman James Hamilton and he had visited the garbage plant before the city took over the problem. He declared there were a thousand tons of putrid garbage, piled wagon high, on the old "Carnegie grounds" (near Center street).

Mayne declared the city officials could find nothing in the contract whereby the contractor could be penalized. The city cleaned the grounds and later got the municipal plant, which has operated since. "You're starting out under an ordinance which is no good," he said.

The spokesman then advised: "As a citizen, not as the incoming mayor, just go a little slow."

Mayne charged various cities used it as a "political football" because of the profit, after which he said that if the collection contract were let out all persons connected with the corporation or partnership bidding should have their names on the bid.

"I can get from the remarks there is no understanding of the problem, but there is one of expense of operation," McGrath declared. Some weeks ago it was said the cost was $33,000, and McGrath believed a saving of $10,000 could be had.

Michael Mulcahy also spoke. He was a bidder. Mulcahy said he had compiled his bid according to the ordinance.

Charles De Carbo advised that "if you're going to make a 'football' out of this, he did not want his bid open."

Later the council voted, three to two, to not open the bids, which means the present system of operation will continue here.

Approximately one dozen bids were presented. Each was accompanied by a certified check for $500. After the vote to not open them the bids and checks were returned to the bidders.

"PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL TO MEN"

DESPITE the continuance of the greatest advancements in science and in all fields of material civilization the world approaches the end of the year 1939, not in the spirit of Christmas and high spiritual culture commensurate with its material progress, but in that of retrogression toward the barbaric periods in the Middle Ages.

As on the continents of Europe and Asia men face one another aiming death weapons relentlessly and grimly, one country stands out particularly as a beacon of hope to the whole world and we are most fortunate that that country is our country. While in Europe and Asia classes, religions and races clash in a most horrible and ruthless contest, here men and women who or whose ancestors have come here from the very people now engaged in the bloody war are constantly building one indivisible nation, one harmonious American nation.

As we are in the last two weeks of the year, those in which the Christmas spirit and all that it typifies should be most clearly before us, we can but pledge ourselves again to be good Americans, oblivious of distinction of race and creed, oblivious of division of classes, militant against creating any division among our citizens which would label them politically or economically on the basis or race, creed or class.

These hurried days, there is shopping to be done and thoughts of giving to make others happy. We hope, too, that this season will bring a renewed determination to fight foreign "isms" and strive for the development of a finer and better democracy.

HISTORY OF OUR LIVES

On January 1, years ago, millions of people started out annually to write a history of their lives for the coming year. Many of them were incited to do so when they received a present of a blank diary. The sight of all those neat and clean pages with a date for each one stimulated them to record their actions and thoughts.

The attics of old houses contain many diaries, yellowed by age, written by parents and grandparents. They are an interesting record of the experiences of the previous generations. If we had time to pore over them, we would get a vivid picture of the past century.

People were very reflective in those days. They had no motion pictures, no radios, no automobiles, to occupy their attention. They spent much time in meditation, and enjoyed recording their thoughts in these personal journals. They took life on the whole with a calmer philosophy than we now possess.

Modern folk are too busy to spend time writing the history of their lives. The time that the elderly lady spent in writing in her journal is probably used by her granddaughter in attending the bridge club.

Countless blank books in diary form are still sold, but apparently people use them not to record their actions and thoughts, but to make memoranda and to jot down future engagements. We live in the present. Something is missed when the past thus drops out of our thought, and we have no way of bringing it back to mind.

DOUBTFUL PROMISE BY JAPAN

Japan's promise that the Yangzte River between Shanghai and Nanking is to be reopened to the trade of all nations obviously is intended as a concession to the United States and as a long-overdue reply, in part, to the Washington protest of a year ago against Japanese policy in China.

The Japanese are far more anxious than they care to admit that the commercial treaty of 1911 which this country has denounced, and which is scheduled to expire next month, be renewed. They are apparently eager, also, for the time being, to subordinate their hitherto frank determination to monopolize China's trade.

But although the Tokio government has assured our ambassador, Mr. Grew, that the Yangzte will be opened to other nations, the best it can do about setting a date for this modification of hard-and-fast military rule is that it will be "at the proper time" and under "appropriate conditions."

The "proper time" seems to mean when the Japanese get good and ready. "Appropriate conditions" suggest that when the river is opened to trade it will be with the strict military policing of the Japanese forces. To what extent this would facilitate the business of affairs of outside nations is highly problematical.

It is not much wonder, in the circumstances, that Shanghai business circles regard the Japanese promise to reopen the Yangzte as a face-saving device not calculated to be of much assistance to American trade in China reflects the Inquirer of Philadelphia. It offers little assurance that Tokio has retreated one inch in its resolution to dominate China politically and economically.

These days Mussolini toils not for Hitler, neither does he spin on that Rome-Berlin axis.

Only 700 diplomats attended the White House dinner. Usually 1,200 are present. Perhaps this saving in food will help balance the budget.

Finland is intelligent and industrious, two virtues which made her so prosperous a greedy bully living next door decided he wanted her for himself alone.

A Kansas university professor is quoted as saying he doesn't mind if students in the classroom look at their watches once in a while, but when a student shakes his watch to see if it has stopped running, that's going too far.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THE TRUEST CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

HOW WOULD you feel if you were the only child in your class at school who was a Protestant, the only one a Catholic or the only one a Jew, especially if the other children made you feel you were inferior to them, or that you and your parents were to be despised because of religion? I often try to imagine how I would feel if I were one of these "only" children.

On a number of occasions recently I have raised this question while addressing teachers. My purpose was to get them to see how important it is to respect the feeling and personality of every child, and how important it is to lead the children at school to respect the feelings of each other. What an opportunity a teacher has to this end!

I believe it is fitting now, at the Christmas season, that each of us ask himself this question. I believe that such self-examination should give us renewed spiritual value and make some difference in our conduct. Likewise, I believe our children might gain similar values if we parents were to talk over these matters with them.

I might be wrong, of course, but it seems to me that hatred or disrespect for any other person, just because he or his parents happen to have a religious faith or cultural background different from ours, is very opposite the basic philosophy of Jesus. It has seemed to me, indeed, that about the most important thing in the religious teaching and training of our children is to cultivate in them, by precept and example, a real tolerance.

Goal For Parents

And right now, with so much intolerance and hatred in the world, it would seem especially desirable for parents to strive for a spirit of understanding and consideration for the feelings and personalities of others, which, by the way, is a basic principle of inherent rights laid down in the constitution of the United States.

You and I don't need to be disloyal to our own flesh or philosophy of life in order to be considerate of another's faith. Rather, I believe, we shall prove the more loyal to our own as we discipline ourselves to respect the rights of others to their beliefs.

And now is the time when you and I have the privilege to manifest our genuine Christmas spirit by buying Christmas seals to help pay for the program, in our respective communities, for the prevention of tuberculosis in our children, ourselves and our neighbors.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

DON'T FIRE HIM!

A group of employers in Rochester, New York, is attempting to solve the problem of work for men over forty. Its whole employment policy is based on the idea that a proper balance should be maintained between young and old, so that by and large the proportions employed should be the same as the proportions in the community. The policy has been so successful that the proportions today are within one per cent of the same.

The policy in hiring is to employ persons with dependents, everything else being equal.

The policy when business conditions force a reduction in staff is the same as in hiring, with added consideration of length of service.

The policy when a man can no longer do the work for which he was hired because of age or disability is to retain him, if possible, for some other job.

James J. Wadsworth, chairman of the joint legislative committee studying discrimination in employment of the middle aged of the State of New York, is entnusiastic about the results which have been obtained since inauguration of the policy. He feels that, if employers generally would adopt the Rochester program, there would no longer be any age problem in employment. He feels that there would also be a far greater stability and productivity in industry.

The plan is simple in the extreme. It can be adopted anywhere, by groups or by individual employers. With the number of older employables now constantly increasing in this country in comparison with the younger, the social value of keeping the older men employed cannot be over-estimated.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHRISTMAS MAGIC

Just what is it that Christmas does
To every man and woman,
Ending the bitterness that was
For something sweetly human?
Why to remember one poor child
Once cradled in a manger,
Should foe with foe be reconciled
And stranger friend to stranger?

What is this miracle of love
Which Christmas works upon us,
Putting another's joy above
The burdens heavy on us?
Why in the name of one bright star
Over a stable glowing,
Should we forget how poor we are
And turn to gift bestowing?

What is this charm of joyous peace
Which Christmas yearly fashions,
Causing all grievances to cease
And softening all our passions?
A child within a stable born!
And down the years thereafter
The world upon the Christmas morn
Awakes to love and laughter!

Toonerville Folks — BY FONTAINE FOX

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:36. Sun rises tomorrow 7:21.

Today is the shortest day of the year according to the calendar. Saturday will be the shortest day according to the pocketbook.

Say, comrade do you know what a soy bean is. Only 157 million bushels of them were raised in the United States last year.

Mother's getting Pap for Christmas a Wedgewood dinner set. She says she loves it.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

As soon as Mr. Jones saw Mrs. Chippleight coming up the garden path, he fled to his study and left his wife to her fate. Half an hour later, hearing the door shut, he went down and put his head inside the drawing room.

"Has the old crow gone?" he asked.

"Yes dear," said the wife. "About an hour ago. And now dear Mrs. Chippleigh has called. Isn't it sweet of her?"

There have been many nasty political fights in the past, but the one the Democrats will put up from now on will make the others look like baby play.

We notice pocketbooks now have zippers on them. We thought there would have to be something that would keep the money in one.

It ought to be a hard matter to pass a fifty dollar counterfeit bill. So many people have never seen a good one and would be scared if they did see one—good or bad.

Pap says after Mother gets her Christmas present she's a different woman, so he puts off delivering it as long as he can.

About 39 persons were killed and 332 injured during the last hunting season in Pennsylvania. Is it worth it?

MAKING GOOD

"I told you to deliver that letter" said the boss angrily to the messenger. "What if there was no mail box? Get back there and deliver it at all costs."

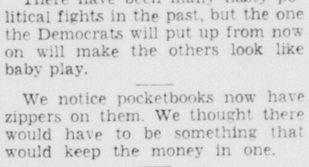

"I did it boss," said the boy on his return the second time. "I couldn't get it under the door, so I tore it in long strips and stuck it through the keyhole."

This is the season when to the small boy, S. O. S. has a new and more important significance: Santa, O Santa!

"Nearly a third of the workers in the country are women" says an item in one of those knowledge columns.

Wonder if they think a housewife doesn't work.

In some places there are people who think a city golf course should support itself. Maybe planting potatoes on the ground would be better.

The reward for taking an interest in the world's affairs is that you aren't bored stiff when you can't find a bridge game.

Now two other big newspapers have closed up, one in Atlanta, Ga., and the other in Chattanooga Tenn. Same reason—too much expense and taxes.

OF COURSE

The pretty hosiery clerk was accosted by the head floorwalker.

"I saw you talking with the man who just left," said the floorwalker. "What did he want to see?"

"He wanted to see me tonight,' said the girl.

Some of these problems the instructors in mathematics give do seem sort of senseless. Take that long one to find out what X meant After an hour's work the weary student found that X equalled just exactly zero. No wonder he growled All that work for nothing.

SO WOULD WE

A mother is pretty certain her boy is going to be a snappy lad when he grows up. The other morning she wanted him to set up pointing out that the birds were up and about long before.

"If I had to sleep on a bed of sticks and straw I'd get up early too" said the youngster sleepily.

Often when we see three or four certain bozos with their heads together, we look for some barn burning down.

Santa Claus songs are the most popular songs we hear now. It's a good thing Santa can't hear some of 'em.

SHARP REJOINER

Then there is the school story about the plump pupil.

"Alas," said the teacher after the fat one had recited not too well. "You are young man, better fed than taught."

"Maybe so" said the plump one. "You do the teaching but I feed myself."

During the depression the dinner invitation put more spring in a fellow's step.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Just why little Dianne is the most popular girl with both sexes in our neighborhood is easily explained She is blessed by an even disposition, is always polite to everyone But her chief social asset is the fact that she is never argumentative Almost any other girl in her crowd will be free with the retort discourteous, such as: "That's ridiculous!" "How do you get that way!" "You don't know what you're talking about!"

By avoiding such social pitfalls, Dianne is never without a date, never sits out a dance, never misses a big show or a big movie. I think you will agree with me that argumentative people even when clever lose friends faster than dolts or drunkards. The girl who is always ready with "I beg to differ" is headed for a lonely old age.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I have been invited to a dance. My only evening dresses are one of white net and the other of yellow, both have taffeta slips underneath the net. Must I buy another dress of heavier material for winter wear?—A. C.

Answer: Indeed, no, you need not buy another gown! Net of any shade is worn in winter or summer.

Dear Miss Markel: My baby will be christened soon. Must we give a fee to the clergyman or is this unnecessary.—Mother.

Answer: You should give him a fee of not less than $5, if you can afford it.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

The Washington monument was started in 1848 and was built on a cash and carry basis through popular subscription. In 1854 the shaft had reached a height of 150 feet and then all work was halted because someone stole a block of marble contributed by the Pope. Indignation caused by the theft of the marble block caused all the work to stop and it was not until 1876 that army engineers took over the job and finished the shaft at government expenses. The stolen block of marble was never found. It took the army engineers until 1884 to complete the job. The monument is 555 feet high and is open to visitors daily except on Christmas Day.

THE CANDY BANDIT

There's a bandit in our neighborhood,
A really, truly one;
He lies in wait in broad daylight
But never totes a gun;
He'll hold you up there's no escape,
You're sure to be his prey,
Then if you haven't what he wants,
He'll try another day.

No doubt you've seen him on our block
He drives a kiddy car
To find a sweeter, three year old
You'll have to journey far.
And when he looks up in your face
You really cannot stand it,
He captures both your heart and soul
That darling Candy Bandit.

The bank has instructions to pay the wager to the heirs of the winner in the year 2342. Interest upon the $2.50 for 500 years will be plenty To be exact it will be $2,084,495,605.22. NOT YET

The movie star was holding court in her dressing room for a number of important studio visitors

"There's a man to see you," said her maid. "He says he's the minister who married you last week."

"Let me see," mused the actress "No, there must be some mistake I'm positive I never married a minister, last week."

Dies Muffed Ball On Trotsky
Would Have Been Good Witness
Trotsky's Convictions Sincere

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Representative Martin Dies of Texas muffed a wonderful chance in antagonizing Leon Trotsky as a witness before the congressional investigation of anti-American activities in this country. Trotsky was willing to cross the Rio Grande from Mexico where he's in exile, to testify, but he said he would not answer a questionnaire from Mexico City.

Some of the testimony of the Dies inquisition has developed has come from rather questionable sources—from birds who admitted that they had been connected with organizations of foreign agitators in our midst but had soured on them for no very creditable reasons; not because they weren't being paid from headquarters as they had hoped to be. Such witnesses aren't overly convincing. They've been small calibre plotters, anyway. Even Earl Browder's a joke. Nobody takes him seriously.

Trotsky, however, is a major personality. There isn't any doubt about his sincerity, either. However questionable his philosophy, he's made sacrifices for it. He's a guy of honest convictions. What he says is to be taken at face value, as he sees values.

Trotsky's Background

When I first met him was in Russian czarist days, before the World war and his own country's revolution.

He was an exile in Switzerland. Previously he'd been an exile in Siberia. His name isn't Trotsky. It's Bronstein. He'd snooped out of Siberia under the name of Trotsky. In that era it was thoroughly respectable for a liberal Russian to be in exile from his czar-ridden home land. Stalinist Russia is so bad now that we've forgotten how bad we considered it under the Romanoffs. Today we look sympathetically upon an exiled ex-czarist. Then our sympathy was all with the would-be Russian revolutionists. True, we deemed 'em a trifle nihilistic but our consensus was that a modicum of nihilism was excusable under the Russian circumstances.

Next in came Kerensky. His regime internationally was rated as violently red, because it was compared with czarism. Nevertheless Kerensky wasn't much more than a rather pronounced democrat. He wasn't advanced enough to suit Comrade Trotsky. Lenin followed Kerensky. Lenin was right down Trotsky's alley. He was as leftist as Leon thought he ought to be but no such OGPU-ist as Comrade Stalin developed into.

Lenin Public Spirited

Lenin, in short, in his queer way, was public spirited. Trotsky was his main reliance—his commissar of war; seemingly a darned good prospect to succeed Comrade Nicolai as soon as the latter left a vacancy.

But it didn't work that way. Comrade Lenin croaked and Comrade Josef Stalin grabbed the joo. I presume he was a more energetic, practical cuss than Comrade Trotsky. Anyway he elbowed himself into the boss-ship.

It seems funny to speak of Trotsky as a conservative. He was a rip-snorting dynamiter under the czar. He was a conservative under Kerensky. He was right-inline under Lenin. He's a reactionary under Stalin.

Stalin exiled him as fast as the czar did He hit somewhere in southeastern Russia. Then he wiggled into Turkey. I met him second time at Istanbul (formerly Constantinople). He said he did not like Stalin-ism any better than he liked czar-ism.

A Straddler

Briefly, he's a straddler between leftists and ULTRA-leftists.

He knows his "stuff", though. As

Effect Of The Garner Announcement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.

OF course, the announcement by Mr. Garner of his candidacy was not much of a surprise. It had been looked upon as certain for some time. Nevertheless, it has clarified some things in the Democratic party and had a considerable effect upon the general situation. Whatever one may think of Mr. Garner's chances of nomination, the importance of his announcement at this time when the inner-circle politicians and their journalistic friends are furiously working to get the third-term movement on its feet cannot be minimized.

FOR example, look at the Administration picture as now presented on this subject. Urging a third term are the Corcoran-Cohen group of young radicals. Secretaries Ickes and Wallace, Ambassadors Kennedy and Davies, Senators Norris and Guffey, and a number of politicians like Kelly, of Chicago, and Hague, of New Jersey, with clear personal or local political reasons for wanting Mr. Roosevelt to run. Up to date, the only two men without quite obviously selfish reasons for their advocacy are Senator Norris, of Nebraska, who is wholly independent of parties and individuals for his political life, and Mr. Kennedy, who wants to get back to private life. Of not one of the others can this be said.

EITHER they are dependent on Mr. Roosevelt for their jobs, which they are anxious to retain, or they depend upon his personal following for their local political success. With the exception of the Messrs. Hague and Kelly, who have their special reasons for not wanting to antagonize the palace politicians, the individuals who have thus far come out for Mr. Roosevelt altogether are not worth a single delegate in the Democratic convention. Nor could they combined carry a precinct in a primary. This does not mean that Mr. Roosevelt could not, if he wants, carry a great many precincts and secure a great many delegates, because he could. Nor does it mean that there are not in the country large numbers of people who would like to have him renominated and relected. He still has vast popularity and, with a considerable portion of his following, this extends to a third term. What it does mean is that what he could do for himself cannot be done by the individuals now advocating his renomination.

THAT'S one side of the picture. Here is the other—the Garner statement, coupled with the known views of Mr. Farley, make it clear that the Administration as well as the party is split on this subject. It amounts to notice that Mr. Roosevelt's Postmaster General, who is also chairman of the National Committee, and Mr. Roosevelt's running mate in two campaigns, the Vice-President of the United States, with the friendliest feelings toward him personally, believe that a third nomination would be disastrous for the party, for him and for the country. Nor will they willingly acquiesce in it. It is not disputed that Mr. Farley and Mr. Garner will control without effort a great many delegates in the convention. Nor is it disputed that aside from Mr. Roosevelt himself, they are the two leading and most popular Democrats in the country.

ADD to these things the fact that Secretary Hull, the outstanding member of the Cabinet, though wholly loyal to Mr. Roosevelt personally and refraining from any public word on the subject, at bottom is no more a third-termer than the Messrs. Farley and Garner, that he is himself most prominently mentioned for the Presidency—add all these facts up and this side of the Administration picture seems to overshadow the other. Particularly is this so when it is pointed out that the members of the President's Cabinet who are against the third term are the Democratic members; those who favor it are the Republican members. Neither Mr. Ickes, Mr. Wallace nor Mr. Hopkins were Democrats before they entered the Cabinet. What Mr. Corcoran and his merry crew were is hard to say, but certainly they were not Democrats.

THE net of all this seems to make talk of "drafting" Mr. Roosevelt absurd. If these things mean anything, they mean that the only way in which he can secure a renomination is by actively conniving in the movement; that if the connivance should be successful, the nomination would come from a reluctant convention, and a party split would follow that would drive millions of conservative Democrats to the Republican candidate. There is reason to believe that despite the flattering voices which tell him he can be nominated by acclamation and elected overwhelmingly, Mr. Roosevelt knows this situation as well as anyone. The Garner statement has made it clearer than before. It also has made more remote the chance that if and when Mr. Roosevelt removes himself from the race he can appear to relinquish a thing he could easily have had.

Scores Of Boy Scouts Send Season's Greeting To Col. Theo. Roosevelt

Merry Christmas and a Happy 1940, Col. Roosevelt!

That's what 500 cheery Christmas cards are carrying to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, son of the great president, from Boy Scouts and leaders of the Lawrence County Boy Scout council.

The council hopes to bring the distinguished young "Teddy" to New Castle for its anniversary banquet in February, the council's public relations committee said.

"But we are glad to greet the colonel, too" a member of the public relations group explained. "Mr. Roosevelt has promised to come here if he possibly can."

The cards bearing the signatures of all who send them, are going out from the office of Scout Executive John J. Finnessy. They are being address to the Roosevelt home at Oyster Boy, Long Island.

Hundreds Of Toys And Baskets Will Be Given By Army

Salvation Army Of New Castle Packing 125 Baskets; Also Toys For 200 Tots

Fifty-nine years ago the Salvation Army in the United States consisted of a little group of seven persons. Today this small beginning has grown into a consecrated fighting force of 4,787 officers serving the needs of 1,910 centers throughout the country. During the past year, the Salvation Army furnished approximately sixteen million meals, six and one-half million beds to hungry and tired men, women, and children, and what is better it obtained employment for 76,930 persons outside its own institutions.

Let us not forget that it is at Christmas time that the Salvation Army endeavors to give that "little more" which makes all the difference to the celebration of the festive season, especially for the children. This Christmas, due to the activities of the Salvation Army, 400,000 families and 300,000 will be made happier during the Christmas season. The local organization expects to distribute 125 baskets and give toys to at least 200 children.

The contributions in the Army kettles on the street corners are insufficient to meet the cost of this distribution. Further sums must be obtained from individuals, so please send your gift to the Salvation Army, Box 447, New Castle.

Richman Factory And Store Employes Share Big Fund

Richman Brothers, clothes makers, today announced a cash distribution of $105,000 to factory and store employees. This is the second cash distribution to Richman Brothers employees this year. Another was made in July. The two combined total $210,000.

The cash distribution takes the form of a vacation with pay. This is an old Richman custom. Vacations with pay have been given to Richman employees since 1919. The winter vacation at the factory will begin on December 22 and will continue to January 2. In the stores, the vacations will be staggered to permit them to keep open for business.

A feature of the Christmas party at the Richman factory will be a huge Christmas tree around which the employees will exchange gifts. This also is an old custom of the "Richman Family", as this famous organization of stock-owning and profit-sharing workers is known.

What causes so many automobile accidents?

Many factors contribute to this highway slaughter.

The National Safety Council lists them in their order.

Unsafe speeds, violations of road rules, careless pedestrians.

Driver's bodily defects, driver's youthfulness, drunken driving.

Unsafe car, highway defects, darkness.

An Iowa coroner picks his chief cause of accidents.

He attributes it to driver's lack of proper judgment.

He suggests a bumper all around the car, no projections.

Buchalter Found Guilty By Jury

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—Prosecution on nine more narcotics indictments today still faced Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, convicted on a conspiracy charge last night by a federal grand jury which heard him described by the government as the head of a dope ring which did a $10,000,000 business between 1935 and 1937.

One of Lepke's co-defendants, Max Schmuckler was convicted with him but the other, David Kardonick was acquitted.

On the conspiracy conviction, Lepke and Schmuckler face maximum sentences of two years in jail and $10,000 fines. But the nine other indictments remaining against all three carry maximum terms of 162 years in prison and $180,000 fines.

Lepke accepted the verdict without blinking an eye. Judge John C Knox fixed Januarqy 2 for sentencing.

Wealthy Woman Recluse Is Dead

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH Dec. 21—Final arrangements were being made today for the funeral tomorrow of Miss Frances F. Helmold, wealthy 98 year old recluse, whose first and last ride in an automobile will be to the cemetery.

So adverse was she to anything "modern" that it was only two years ago—and then upon the advice of a physician—that she installed a telephone. As for radios, electricity, motion pictures and other gadgets which go to make up the modern home, she would have none of them. She reputedly left an estate of $100,000. No immediate relatives could be located authorities said.

Hearing Is Held In Casacchia Law Case

Hearing was held before Judge W. Walter Braham at court today in the equity suit of a committee of the Lawrence County Bar Association composed of William D. Cobau, W. A. Wilkison and J. Roy Mercer against Angelo J. Casacchia in which an injunction is sought to restrain him from practicing law on the grounds that he has never been admitted to the Lawrence County bar.

Casacchia denies that he has been practicing law. He says that he has a real estate broker's license, and is engaged largely in the real estate, bonding and insurance business. He claims that his clients know that he is not a lawyer and that in fact, he has sent them to lawyers when court matters came up. Quite a number of witnesses were examined on both sides and a decision will be handed down later.

Public Votes On 'Popular' Home Christmas Displays

Pa and Ma Newc this evening will step into the family car and go cruising through the city to select what, to them, are the prize-worthy Christmas home lighting displays—or maybe they're planning to make the trip Friday night.

Anyway, the "popularity voting" is starting in New Castle's 1939 Christmas Home Lighting contest sponsored by the Lawrence County Garden club. Every citizen may vote by using the ballot printed below. And your vote may help someone to win a handsome award.

Friday night the official contest judging will be tackled by a four member board.

Results of the popular voting will be withheld, of course, until the judges make their report.

Vote and mail your ballot—the one and only ballot—to The News!

Unemployed Face Bright Christmas As Checks Appear

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Unemployed workers in Pennsylvania perhaps will have a little brighter Christmas because of the distribution of benefit checks totaling approximately $2,000,000, Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines reported today.

That amount will go to jobless Pennsylvanians meeting the legal requirements before Christmas Day, Hines disclosed.

"Yuletide benefit payments to these idle workers would fill nearly half a million Christmas baskets, purchase 70,000 pairs of shoes, place 35,000 tons of coal in their cellars, and supply them with proportionate amounts of services and other commodities," Hines declared.

Churches and welfare organizations will receive about $60,000 or about three per cent of the jobless benefits disbursed in Pennsylvania this month.

Ex-Big Leaguer Stands Acquitted

(International News Service)

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Dec. 21.—Bill Bishop, 39-year-old Houtzdale WPA worker who served as a pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics at one time, was freed today of a voluntary manslaughter indictment in the death of Wilson Sharpless, 61.

A jury of ten men and two women deliberated four hours before voting the "not guilty" ballot. Bishop, on the stand in his own defense, had emphatically denied all charges.

Sharpless was found dead in an alley behind the Houtzdale Veterans' club on October 29. Former State Senator Edward J. Thompson and J. Mitchell Chase, former state commander of the American Legion, defended Bishop.

Fire-Proofing For Christmas Trees Advocated

Use Of Ammonium Sulfate Is Recommended By Red Cross Chapter

Christmas trees can be rendered non-inflammable by a simple method, using ammonium sulfate, the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross announces.

This method which has been discovered and advocated by the United States Department of Agriculture, is as follows:

Cut the trunk at an angle or in a "V" shape. Then weigh the tree and divide the weight by four. This will give you the weight of the ammonium sulfate needed. Dissolve the ammonium sulfate in water, using one and one-half pints of water to the pound. Place the solution in a tin pail, glass jar or earthen crock.

A narrow-mouthed container is best, as it lessens evaporation. In a cool place, set the tree in the solution, leaving it there a sufficient length of time for absorption to take place. The danger of combustibility is then at a minimum. Inflammable decorations may also be treated with the solution.

In the matter of the first partial account of Norman Ehrlich, administrator in the estate of the late Solomon Brown, Mr. Ehrlich presented a petition in court today, setting forth that no objections had been filed to the account showing a balance of $31,350.72 for distribution, and asking that an auditor be appointed. Judge Braham appointed Attorney Elmer D. O'Neill. It was also stated in the petition that there are a large number of heirs, and that some of their addresses are indefinite. It is also noted that the interests of some heirs are represented by estates.

Statement of claim has been filed at the prothonotary's office in an action in trepass brought by Ruth I. Myers against the Green Light Taxicab Company in which damages are claimed for injuries received in an automobile accident. Plaintiff claims that her car had stopped on East Washington street, waiting for traffic to pass so that she could turn into Spruce street, when a car allegedly driven by Welty R. Nicholson of the taxicab company crashed into her car.

Judge W. Walter Braham has handed down an opinion in the case of Jake Levine against Anna and William Kochanski, which came before the court on a petition to open judgement. The opinion recites that the defendants are farmers and bought two horses from the plaintiff. The first was a gray mare for which defendants were to pay $70, and delivered to plaintiff a Holstein cow and a black mare. It is claimed that the gray mare was warranted to be with foal and a good worker. A week later defendant bought a black mare from plaintiff for $175, giving a ninety day note. This mare was represented to be six years old. Defendants afterwards learned that the black mare was more than six years old, and made objection to paying the note, claiming that the gray mare had also been misrepresented. The court holds that the purchase of the gray mare and the black mare were two separate transactions, and that the alleged warranty on the gray mare cannot be claimed as a setoff against the note given for the black mare. Judgement is accordingly opened to allow defendants to present evidence concerning alleged breach of warranty concerning the black mare, but not the alleged breach concerning the gray mare.

Reid Stresses Driving Danger

Weather Conditions, More Hours Of Darkness Are Greatest Dangers

DEATH STRIKES IN DARK HOURS

Weather conditions, lengthening hours of darkness and holiday joviality makes December the most dangerous month for motorists and pedestrians. George Reid, chairman of Accident Prevention Committee, Lawrence County Chapter American Red Cross, warns in a plea for greater holiday safety.

Mr. Reid stressed the hazard of early darkness by pointing out that "mile-for-mile" there are nearly three times as many accidents between 2 and 3 a. m. as there are between 8 and 9 a. m. In the daytime, he said, only one in every 49 motor vehicle injuries proves fatal, while at night death is registered every 26 injuries. He added that 52 per cent of all pedestrian fatalities take place between 6 p. m. and midnight.

Snow, sleet, rain and fog add to the seasonal dangers in December, it was emphasized. Mr. Reid urged that the motorist exercise double caution when driving under these conditions; caution in handling his own car and a vigilant eye on what the other motorist might do.

The motorist who thinks he can drive "just as well" after a few drinks has only to let the law of averages run their course to prove the contrary.

With increased traffic congestion, handicapped by the "danger" factor of winter driving, December becomes a perilous month for the pedestrian, according to Mr. Reid. Because the pedestrian invariably comes out second best in an encounter with an automobile, it is suggested that he should be willing to go more than half way to avoid such an encounter —regardless of the fact that he may be legally entitled to the right-of-way.

Cold Draw Wins Shelby Loop Lead

Gottuso Leads Winners To One-Point Victory Over Office Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21—The Cold Draw cagers gained sole possession of first place in the Shelby Basketball league last night by nosing out the Office 25 to 26 in a thrilling game at the Shelby court. The scoring wizard of the game was Jimmy Gottuso, Cold Draw guard, who caged the winning field goal with three minutes remaining to play in the final period.

Jumping to a 9 to 6 lead in the first canto and leading 15 to 14 at the half, the Cold Draw was headed by the Office 23 to 21 at the end of the third quarter. Early in the final period, Fusco, caged a short toss, making the count 25 to 21 for the Office. At this juncture, Gottuso negotiated a free throw, Bianco added a double decker from long range and Gottuso sank the game's winning shot. In the final three minutes neither team was able to score with the Cold Draw "freezing the ball."

In the other game, the Hot Finish, defending champs, gained their first victory over the luckless Inspection by a 33-21 count. Ursu was top man for the winners with three double-deckers and three charity tosses.

Saturday night the Cold Finish meets the Inspection and the Mechanical the Office, while the league leaders will be idle. The regular Saturday night dance will follow from 10 until 12 p. m.

Little Holiday Seal Doing Big Task Here

Sometimes we get into the habit of complaining and we really have nothing of which to complain. For instance let's listen to a conversation overhead in the Lawrence County Tuberculosis office. A letter has just come into the office and on the back of the envelope are three Christmas seals.

One of the seals spoke up and said: "Well here we are back where we started from."

Letter: "So, what, I'd like to know what good it does you to travel 'round in circles".

Seal: "Lots! for one thing I get to see the world".

Letter: "Very small part of the world you've seen".

Seal: "Well it was nice what I did see, besides I've brought joy and health to some one".

Letter: "Humph', not to me I'm sure. I always have to carry a United States government stamp on my face and now you come along and jump on my back—seems to me I have enough to do without having to carry you, too".

Seal: "But don't you know that by carrying me you are doing your good deed?"

Letter: "I don't see how you figure except that I'm showing you a good time".

Seal: "Of course I'm having a good time—and one reason is because I'm doing my good deed".

Letter: "Making me attractive, I suppose".

Seal: "Well, I didn't mean that, but come to think of it, you do look much better with us pasted on your back, more Christmasy. What I really meant was that I bring health and happiness to sick people, but I can only do that by traveling on letters and packages".

Letter: "Sounds mighty fine, let's hear why".

Seal: "Well you see that folks to whom I really belong help people who have tuberculosis to get well".

Letter: "How can they do that?"

Seal: "The money spent for me goes to the tuberculosis society and is in turn paid for X-rays to discover early cases, special tuberculosis clinics for Negro folk last May, educational literature which is distributed to schools, clubs and individuals, educational films shown in churches and schools, milk for advanced tuberculosis patients, transportation and clothing provided for patients going to Pennsylvania sanitoriums and also helped with 'well baby' clinics weekly".

Letter: "I apologize—I don't mind having you ride on my back, now that I know just why you are there, in fact, I am very glad to do my bit and I'll never complain again, NEVER".

Seal: "Then we'll have a very Merry Christmas together and know that we are doing our bit to spread Christmas Cheer".

Let's not complain, let's all be like the seal and do our bit to bring Christmas cheer this holiday season.

Four Local People Have Poems Printed

Are Represented By Pages In Several Newly Published Anthologies

Mrs. Grant Fisher, of Adams St., will also be represented in "The Yearbook of Modern Poetry" on its appearance.

Miss Alice Sterling, of Shaw St., local librarian, had poems printed in Modern Anthology," a recent publication. These three poetry writers are members of the New Castle Poetry Group.

Miss Adeline Miller of Reis St., is another local writer who just recently had some of her work accepted. Her poems may be found in the book "Poets of Pennsylvania."

AROUND CITY HALL

There is a Christmas tree in the police station. It is decorated with vari-colored lights and diffuses the spirit of the holiday season.

The holiday shopping season has helped the city treasury. The last collection of parking meter money, which was Monday, showed an amount of more than $700, approximately $100 more than the preceding 10 days' collection.

Apparently people are buying more and drinking less. Business houses are crowded. The city jail is empty. Only one person was arrested for drunkenness Tuesday night. Mayor Charles E. McGrath gave him a discharge as a Christmas present.

Ashtabula county of Ohio plans to have a radio for the sheriff's office according to a letter received today by Police Chief Ralph A. Crisvell.

SURPRISE RESPONSE

(International News Service)

EUGENE, Ore.—Thinking she was connected with the weather bureau, a woman queried:

"Please tell me the weather forecast for the next 24 hours."

The weary voice of the box office girl at a local theater showing a South Sea epic gave a startling answer:

"Hurricane starts at 6:13."

STAMP COLLECTORS ARRANGE DISPLAYS

During the Christmas week the window of the stamp collector's club room in the Guerard building North Mill street, are attracting considerable attention.

In each of the windows facing on Mill street, is a varied display of stamps and coins. An old letter mailed at the New Castle post office on Christmas Day, 1845, is a feature of the exhibit. This letter was mailed two years before the advent of regular postage stamps and the cover was hand-stamped, "paid 5."

New York Crowd Contributes $50,000 For Aid Of Finns

Hoover Makes Chief Address At Meeting Denouncing Soviet Attack

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Contributions by a crowd of 15,000 who paid their way into Madison Square Garden last night to hear Herbert Hoover lead a long list of speakers in a denunciation of the Soviet attack on Finland today swelled by $50,000 the relief fund campaign for the tiny republic which the former president is directing.

Others who joined in the plea for funds for the Finns were Senators Robert F. Wagner and Burton K. Wheeler, Finnish Minister Hjalmar Procope, A. F. of L. Vice-President Matthew Woll and Dorothy Thompson.

Hoover said the Red Cross had informed him that it would supply medicine and hospital supplies and gather garments for the Finnish refugees but that responsibility for the burden of general relief measures was beyond its means. The Finnish relief fund was organized to meet these needs, he explained.

"The world today witnesses one of those heroic stands for freedom of men that comes but few times in the centuries," Hoover said amid deafening applause. "It is a star illuminating the no man's land of civilization. Its glow will light the minds of men and give hope to liberty for centuries to come."

Hoover painted a sad and stark picture of the destitution and suffering of the Finnish people who, he declared, were making "a heroic defense against appalling hordes of savages."

Asks Two On Labor Board To Quit Posts

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Rep. Robert Ramspeck of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the powerful House labor committee, today demanded that two of the three members of the national labor relations board resign because of disclosures before the congressional committee investigating the NLRB.

Those whose resignation Ramspeck demanded were Board Chairman J. Warren Madden and Board Member Edwin S. Smith. The other member of the board is William M. Leiserson.

Ramspeck declared that unless Madden and Smith "remove themselves, Congress should do it." He added further that he would sponsor a move to abolish the present three-man board and set up a new five-man board if Madden and Smith failed to quit their $10,000-a-year posts.

Health Officers Will Be Sent To Aid Of Finland

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Moving after the presence of typhus fever in Finland was reported to the United States government, President Roosevelt today approved the dispatch of two American health officers to Finland for special medical duty to fight the disease.

The White House announced that apparently the present outbreak comprises the first inroad this type of fever ever made into the bracing climate of Finland.

Senior Surgeon H. A. Spencer, now stationed in Paris, and Senior Surgeon Vance B. Murray, now stationed with the American consulate general in Berlin, were directed to go to Finland and assist the American Red Cross in co-operating with the Finnish government to fight the fever.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHILD'S DISLIKE FOR COD-LIVER OIL ARISES SOMETIMES FROM PARENT'S ATTITUDE

I just had a letter from a mother who writes that she has been impressed with the continual talk about cod-liver oil in these columns. "But," she adds, "I just can't bring myself to feed the horrid stuff to my baby."

It is surprising how often I have run across this same complaint on the part of mothers. Now, babies—and adults, too—need extra supplies of vitamin D during the fall and winter months, particularly if they live in the colder sections of the United States and Canada.

Doctors have found that cod-liver oil is just about the best source of the vitamin as far as humans are concerned. Babies need it to protect them from the ravages of rickets; adults will find it easier to throw off colds if they have plenty of the vitamin in their systems.

Unfortunately, cod-liver oil, in its ordinary form, is a medicine and food in every sense of the word, and its value is in the same proportion to its bad flavor. Of course, there are many forms of the oil—some are purified, some are flavored, some are so concentrated that a drop or two is enough for a dose. All these schemes have been tried in order to make the taking of the oil less nauseating and distasteful. I know many adults who simply cannot take ordinary cod-liver oil. If they do, they are sick and vomit almost immediately. Many children are like that. The reason is largely that the cod-liver oil habit wasn't formed early enough in life.

Mothers should realize that when they give cod-liver oil to a baby a few months old they aren't forcing something horrible on the child. That is entirely the wrong attitude. Actually, babies have no sense of taste whatever until they are at least six months old. So instead of pitying the poor child, we should be envying him. For to him that cod-liver oil tastes just as good as nectar or ambrosia, whatever they are, would taste to him. Some mothers don't seem to be able to realize this fact and so when they think of giving the oil to the baby, they think of it in terms of their own sense of taste.

If a baby is given cod-liver oil early enough, when he develops to the age where his sense of taste begins to function, that oil will taste just as good to him as any of the other things he has been eating. But if you start the baby on some sort of specially flavored cod-liver oil, or if you disguise the taste for him in some way, when he grows older you will likely have difficulty in getting him to take the plain oil again.

I wish this general conception of codliver oil could be changed. It's like the story about the dentist's office that keeps so many children away. Adults adopt an attitude toward the oil. When they give it to children, they allow the disgust they feel to show in their faces, so is it any wonder the child comes to look on it as something distasteful?

One woman wrote me to object to giving it to the Quintuplets. She suggested a substitute which she claimed was almost as good. Well, I answered her by writing that the Dionne girls would as soon go without their dessert as without their cod-liver oil. Well, this may be a slight exaggeration, but actually the five of them take their oil every day and they like it, for no one has ever suggested to them that it is distasteful. And they started getting it in the days when it tasted like everything else they were given.

SHOPPERS URGED TO KEEP POTS BOILING

Gets Pay For Work Done 37 Years Ago

A. C. Williamson, Pulaski, R. D. 2 has received an unexpected Christmas present, a check for $12.86 for services rendered to the Pennsylvania railroad company in 1902. Williamson was a fireman for the road 37 years ago and worked several days after receiving a voucher for his full pay. However, he never collected for the extra days and forgot all about it until last September. While looking through an old trunk he found his railroad pass which reminded him that he had not been paid for the last few days he worked. He sent in a bill and has just received a check, "for services in 1902."

"Shopping" Is Note On Parking Tag

There is an Ohio motorist who has considerable faith in the local department of police.

His car was parked in North Mercer street recently. A policeman placed a tag on the car for overtime parking.

Today Chief of Police Ralph A. Criswell received the tag on which was affixed a three cent stamp and which said:

"I was shopping at (the man named the business house."

Mayor Suggests That Christmas Eve Be Made 'Night Of Light' Here

Mayor Charles E. McGrath today stated that he agreed with the suggestion of Bernarr MacFadden, publisher, that every home in the U. S. should be illuminated Christmas Eve as this country's answer to the "Black-Out" of the world and of freedom. In fact, His Honor suggests that every home glow with light.

He received a telegram as follows from MacFadden:

"As America's answer to the 'Black-Out' threatening the world—a 'Black-Out of Freedom' as well as light, will you proclaim Christmas Eve a 'Night of Light', calling on the citizens of your community to keep every room of every home and building fully lighted, with blinds wide open from dusk to midnight.

"I believe this symbolic action, making this night brighter than any we have ever experienced, would dramatically contrast America's freedom to the darkness which enshrouds not only Europe's cities, but her democratic institutions and would re-charge our determination to keep America beyond the reach of dictatorship.

"As an American citizen, I am sending this suggestion to the president, to every governor and to the mayor of every large city. I believe that citizens will spontaneously respond and that America's 'Night of Light' will be bigger, more significant news in nations where news can still be circulated than any 'Black-Out' has been."

Mayor McGrath in commenting on MacFadden's suggestion, said:

"With warfare raging across the seas and a 'Black-Out' of cities because of fear, it is wonderful to know that in our country we have our minds directed only on creating happiness on Christmas Eve and Christmas day.

"Turn on the lights, pull up the blinds and let the entire world gaze at America's freedom. Let's make it a 'Night of Light'".

France-Germany Still Trading

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Although France and Germany are at war, they have apparently arranged a huge coal and iron ore exchange deal through neutral Belgium, according to a dispatch from Copenhagen published today in the Iron Age, steel trade magazine.

The deal calls for the sale of 4,000,000 tons of Belgian coal to France and 6,000,000 tons of French iron ore to Belgium, the dispatch stated, and since it is established that Belgium can neither supply that much coal nor consume that much iron ore, the assumption is that most of the coal will come from Germany and most of the iron ore go to Germany, the article stated.

That other trade in machinery, tools and implements is also being conducted by France and Germany through Belgium, has been confirmed by Belgian sources, the article said.

DOESN'T FEEL LIKE SAME MAN SINCE HE HAS TAKEN VENDOL

Gave marvelous relief from constipation; then excess acid in stomach, gas, bloating, and other troubles were relieved. Says he feels great all the time.

MR. AL F. TUSZYNSKI

"I feel so good all the time now that when friends remark about it and wonder what I have been doing, I tell them they had better get a few bottles of Vendol and it will help them as it did me," says Mr. Al F. Tuszynski, who lives at 1325 E. Eighth St., Erie, Penna.

"My troubles were due to constipation which made me feel that everything was wrong with me, and after eating I'd feel full, bloated, belched up gas, a sour liquid often came up and burned my throat, and felt like there was a lump I couldn't swallow.

"I seldom enjoyed a restful night's sleep because of jumpy nerves and this made me start off the day feeling blue, depressed, and often feeling tired and achy.

"Vendol gave splendid relief from my constipation like nothing that I ever tried did before, then all those other troubles just gradually passed off. I wouldn't take anything for the relief Vendol gave me."

Vendol is made from extracts of Roots and Herbs with mild Alkalines added and gives wonderful relief from many troubles if due to constipation such as indigestion, gas in stomach, palpitation, acid risings, nervousness, headaches, dizzy feelings, pains in the back and legs, and many other troubles. It is pleasant to take and good for all the family.

Vendol is sold and highly recommended here by Eckerd's of New Castle, 118 E. Washington St., and by many other leading druggists.

Second U. P. And Greeks Win Games In Church League

Only Two Games Played In Church League At "Y" On Wednesday Night

The Second U. P. team defeated the Mahoning Methodist team in the first game on the Church league card at the "Y" last night 49 to 28 with Bill McGary the scoring star of the game getting 17 of the points. Best for the losers was the work of Wilson and Howard with 23 of the points between them.

The second and final game on the card found the Greek Orthodox team topping the St. Marys team 45 to 32 to keep the lead in Class A standing. Coach Emmanuel Othites started a strong lineup with "Socks" Roussos, former New Castle High star at center and getting 18 of the points made by the "Fighting Spartans." Poleno made 16 of the Greeks points. The Greeks have now won five and lost but one in church league competition.

The third game on the card between the First Baptist and First Methodists had to be cancelled on account of lack of players on both teams. It will be played at a later date.

Probe Into Thomas "Threw" Story Is In Third Session

(International News Service)

CHICAGO Dec. 21—The Illinois Athletic Commissioner's marathon investigation of the alleged statement by heavyweight Harry Thomas that he "threw" fights to Max Schmeling and Tony Galento went into its third session today.

Today's scheduled witness was Nate Lewis, former manager of Thomas, who denied at the second hearing on Monday that there was any truth to the charge the fights in question were faked. Lewis was expected to give detailed testimony regarding the financial settlement of the Schmeling-Thomas fight.

As in th previous hearings, Edwin T. Breen first assistant state attorney general, was to be present.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Sports Cocktail: Several inquiries have reached this bureau regarding the status of Lester "Bus" Reiber, ex-New Castle High star basketball player, now enrolled at Duquesne University. Charles "Chick" Davies, coach of the Dukes, recently penned the following "info" concerning the local blonde wizard of the court: "Bus Reiber is doing very well and will be of much help to us during the next three years." Reiber displayed his hoop tactics against Muskingum, Tuesday, and played impressively.

Originally listed for Friday night, the East Brook-Shenango township Section 20 tiff, billed for Shenango court, will be played tonight. . . . . Jack Mercer, captain of New Wilmington High's 1938-39 smoothies, who piloted the team to the final round of the Class B, W. P. I. A. L. tournament, is on Westminster's cage roster. So is Bob Washabaugh, son of Coach Grover C. Washabaugh. . . Emmanuel Othites, prexy of the Greek Orthodox cage team, says plans are being formulated for the erection of a spacious gymnasium in the rear of the Greek Orthodox church, East Reynolds street.

Diamond Musings: Dom DiMaggio, who comes up to the big show via the Pacific loop, is one of the speediest lads in baseball. During the past season, the younger DiMag swiped 39 bases. . . Cincy's Christmas present to the Brooklyn Dodgers will likely be Ernesto Lombardi, baseball's sleeping beauty. . . . . Here it is four days before Christmas and the Cincys are already sold out for the opening game of the '40 season, April 16. Most of these advance ticket buyers are of the curiosity seeking nature—probably out to see if Lombardi is still sound asleep at home plate. . .

Baseball men are glad to learn that the old Rajah, Roger Hornsby, will be on the inside again. Ostracized mainly because of a strong desire to bet on the broom tails, Hornsby gets another chance—a shot to manage the Montreal Royals . . . The Pittsburgh Pirates play 32 spring games next year. For once, the sessions will be "all work," Frankie Frisch's secret to success. . . . Now that they have barred the Yankees from trading or acquiring players, except through the waiver medium, why don't they pass a law requiring the Bombers to use mushball bats instead of the regulation sized war clubs? Even at that, they'd make a race out of it. . .

Spiegel-Maher May Meet Again Due To Dispute

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—A return battle between dethroned state lightweight champion Tommy Speigal, of Uniontown, and the man to whom he lost the title, Billy Maher, of Philadelphia, appeared likely today following a state athletic commission probe of alleged charges their previous fistic meeting was "cut and dried."

The return bout was ordered to take place within 30 days of Chairman Leon Rains and his two fellow members of the commission after they suspended George Sheppard, Speigal's manager, for 90 days at a hearing in the commission's office here.

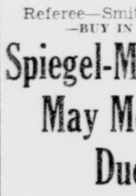

Sheppard was accused of saying the title bout between his fighter and Maher December 11 at the Arena was "jobbed" before Speigal entered the ring. The Brooklyn manager, apeparing at a session crowded with newspaper sports writers, denied making the statements to members of the press.

Old Landmark Near Here Is Being Razed

"Crossroads School" At Top Of Mt. Jackson Hill Being Torn Down

One of the oldest landmarks in the district, one that has played a prominent part in the early lives of many of the older residents of the Seventh Ward and vicinity, the old "Crossroads school" at the top of the Mt. Jackson road hill, is being torn down.

The one-room structure, built about 75 years ago, on the Taylor farm, about ½ mile from its present location, has outlived its usefulness to the community, not having been used for a number of years. The building stands on the Mt. Jackson road, at the Clelland Mill and Covert Station roads intersection.

About 25 years after this school was built, it was moved to its present location.

Ralph Gates Is Injured At Work In Pittsburgh

Ralph Gates, a former resident of the Seventh Ward, was injured while working on a structural steel job in Pittsburgh. He was hurt when struck by a falling beam.

Program Friday At Presbyterian Church In Ward

Congregation Dinner At 6:30 To Be Followed By Entertaining Program

Everything is in readiness for the annual Christmas party for members of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church and Sunday school, to be held Friday evening at the church.

The program is scheduled to begin at 6:30 o'clock, with a congregation dinner. Following the dinner a program will be given in the Sunday school room of the church.

Mahoningtown boys' choir, under the direction of Miss Jane Kyle, will be featured in various selections of Christmas music during the program. Miss Mayme Artherholt is chairman of the committee arranging this program.

Volume Of Mail Reaches Its Peak

Extra Employees Are Needed In Mahoningtown Post Office For Few Days

Several extra employees were put to work at the Mahoningtown post office on Wednesday, as the volume of the Christmas mail reached its peak.

Wednesday was perhaps the biggest mailing day this year for the Mahoningtown station, as large quantities of mail were brought in from the opening hour, all through the day, to closing time last night.

The extra employees will be used for the remaining days before Christmas.

In order to save time for the postal employees, special designations have been made for the drop boxes. The upper slot of the mailing window is for out-of-town mail and the lower slot for Mahoningtown and New Castle letters.

Complete Task Of Removing Old Steel

Gravel Placed Over Site Of Old Electrical Sub-Station On Cedar Street

Workmen from the Pennsylvania Power Company have completed the task of removing the old steel from the old electrical sub-station on North Cedar street. Newly erected steel framework and new transformers now take the place of this old equipment that was in service for so many years.

Wednesday afternoon, the workmen completed the job by spreading fine gravel over the site of the old station, adding to the appearance of the grounds.

The building that formerly housed the equipment of the station is now used for storage, and the building that was erected some distance back from Cedar street has been pressed into service.

TruVal's handsome fabrics will never shrink below the marked size. Their famous Fairflex collar stays neat, smooth, fresh all day, while a special, patented "probing" process prevents premature fraying at the neckline, thus adding to the life of the shirt. These and other superior features make TruVals our recommendation as the ideal gift shirt.

Styles include the new Round collar and Tabless-Tabs.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Last night found a great many folks busy putting the finishing touches on their Christmas lighting displays. And toward the end of the evening the wind whipped up a rather chilly bite . . . all displays entered in the contest should be ready to go. As one goes around the city it's rather hard to find one particular outstanding display . . . but there is one home that has a Santa Claus in the doorway that makes all passerbyers stop and look twice . . . at 208 Sumner avenue. Take a look and see if this Santa Claus doesn't almost talk.

With this touch of snow on the ground this morning a great many thoughts will be turned toward the fine and not so fine art of ice skating. Where to do it and all that sort of thing . . . the lake at Cascade park is dry and it needs to stay dry in order that it can be properly cleaned out . . . this should have been done two years ago . . . but we read that there is some chance for the cement pool to be filled and let freeze . . . this could be done if proper precautions are taken. The city engineer knows about these things so there should be nothing to worry about.

* * *

Well it won't be long until Christmas . . . the stores are still going strong and the people are becoming more happy and carefree as the hours roll by. Almost everyone has been taken care of . . . aunt Tippy and Uncle Joe . . . wait until Christmas, won't their faces light up with pleasant smiles when they see those unusual presents that were suggested by the Classified Christmas Shopping Guide . . . there is still time . . . read this section, found on the opposite page, now.

* * *

Today is the last day of school for the hundreds of New Castle children. A much waited for vacation is about to start . . . and the older and more uppish students will be coming home from college . . . then the fur will fly . . . home sweet home will not be the quiet place it has been these past few months . . . but it's nice to see the Betty-Coeds and the Joe-Boy College class home again. And we hope that each has a very Merry Christmas.

* * *

From reports from the west coast . . . the tickets for the Rose Bowl game are selling like hot cakes . . . and you are good if you can get good reservations on trains leaving Chicago after Christmas . . . it seems that quite a few like to see a football game in winter . . . in California.

Market Picks Up Strength Today As Session Progresses, A. T. & T. Features

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The stock market today picked up a little strength as the morning progressed and activity increased.

American Telephone was a feature, rising 1¾ to a new high for the year. Some sharp gains came in chemical stocks, but throughout the rest of the market the advance was limited. Celanese gained a fraction to a new high.

Rails were irregular, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania holding unchanged, and Central, Great Northern and Southern Pacific losing fractions.

The advance in American Telephone since its was ex-dividend last week has more than made up that deduction.

Steels gained fractions, U. S. Steel rising ⅝ and Bethlehem ¾. Motors were up smaller fractions. Mining and metal shares were irregular.

Rev. Fr. F. F. O'Shea, Former Pastor Here, To Celebrate Jubilee

The Rev. Fr. F. F. O'Shea, a former pastor of St. Mary's church, celebrates his golden jubilee, on Wednesday, December 27, in St. Peter's, Sherman and Ohio, Northside, Pittsburgh, where he began his priesthood in 1889.

Father O'Shea, pastor of the New Castle church for 22 years, will be celebrant at a solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock—the beginning of a day's program which includes a luncheon for 200 priests in the William Penn hotel and a reception by the congregation in Carnegie hall, Northside, at 8:30 o'clock.

Father O'Shea is the only priest still living who was ordained for the diocese of Allegheny, a see which has long since ceased to exist. Following his ordination on December 26, 1889, and his first mass in Willimantic, Conn., where his parents resided, Father O'Shea was assigned to St. Peter's, in what then was known as "Allegheny City."

Born in Killarney, Ireland, February 16, 1863, he came to this country when he was 10 years old and lived with his parents in New England until he entered St. Bonaventure college, Allegany, N. Y., in 1884.

Father O'Shea remained as assistant at St. Peter's for three years. In 1892, he became pastor of Holy Trinity church, Huntington, Pa., then part of the Pittsburgh diocese. That fall, he was transferred to St. James' church, Sewickley, where he remained for 14 years.

Came Here In 1907

In 1907, he took charge as pastor of St. Mary's church, remaining here for 22 years. While in New Castle, Father O'Shea built the present church and rectory and made extensive improvements in the school. He returned to St. Peter's in 1929.

The mass, celebrating the golden jubilee, will be sung by the senior and junior choirs of St. Peter's, under the direction of Miss Mary Reilly. The Rev. Fr. Robert D. A. Wilkey, Ellwood City, will speak.

The Right Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh, the Very Rev. Thomas Plassman, O. F. M., president of St. Bonaventure college, and the Very Rev. John Greaney, of Annunciation church, will be among the speakers at the luncheon for priests of the diocese.

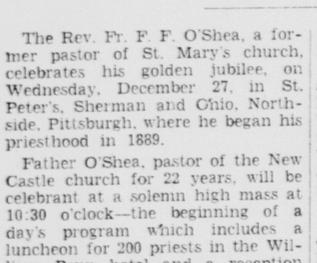

The evening program will include musical numbers, instrumental and choir. The Rev. Fr. J. Dudley Nee, assistant pastor of St. Peter's, will present the honored guest with a purse, a gift of St. Peter's congregation.

Father O'Shea's golden jubilee celebration has been moved to December 27 because of the proximity to Christmas.
